The least money for the greatest service

EDITION

The people of Honolulu read the current news columns of the EVENING BULLETIN. They read the advertising columns because progressive business men have learned that the advertising columns convey news of another sort—news about their wares, their products, their capacity for service, which is important to the whole public.

PRIMARIES MARCH 28

Although there was not a quorum of the Republican Territorial Committee at the meeting called for last evening, there was a quorum of the Executive Committee which under the rules is authorized to do the business which the chairman brought up for consideration—the primaries and Territorial convention for the election of two delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention to be held in Chicago next June 16.

It was voted that the chairman issue a call for primaries to be held throughout the Territory on Saturday, March 28, for the election of delegates to the Territorial convention to be held in Honolulu on Monday, April 13.

The basis of representation in the Territorial convention will be the Republican vote cast by each precinct in the last election of Delegate.

Each precinct is entitled to one Territorial convention delegate for every fifty votes cast for the Republican candidate for Delegate to Congress.

The Territorial convention will have to elect at least two delegates to the National convention and two alternates. Whether it will decide to elect six delegates and seek to have them seated in the convention is a matter for the convention to decide after a general discussion of the subject.

In order to get ready for the primaries called for the 28th of next month it will be necessary for the precinct clubs to begin immediately to make preparations.

Chairman Robertson in issuing the call will give notice of the number of Territorial convention delegates to which each precinct is entitled under the rules.

BIG MORTGAGE RECORDED

An indenture was filed in the office of the Registrar of Conveyances this morning by which the Pacific Sugar Mill mortgages to Bishop & Company all of its property to secure the $500,000 bond issue authorized by the stockholders of the company at the meeting held last October. This bond issue, as stated at that time, is to pay off the outstanding indebtedness of $315,000 against the plantation and to give it a working capital for the carrying on of its business.

The mortgage is signed by F. A. Schaefer, president of the Pacific Sugar Mill, and by S. M. Damon and A. W. T. Bottomley for Bishop & Co.

SCHOONER SIGHTED

A four-masted schooner has been reported at the signal station as being several miles off Koko Head. She is too far away as yet for her identity to be determined.

Judge Lindsay had to make two trips this morning to the site of the alleged illicit selling of liquor for which Mrs. Miguel is on trial. On one trip he was accompanied by the attorney for the defense, while on the other the prosecuting attorney went with him.

James K. Vardaman, governor of Mississippi, is to begin publishing a paper at Jackson.

LOOKS LIKE A PLOT

"Don't you think I'd make a good Treasurer?" asked Ahitau Leonard Cholmondeley Atkinson, commonly called Jack, this morning as he emerged from the sanctum where he had been having a conference with Governor Frear.

From which remark it is evident that the ex-Secretary has some deep, dark plot on hand. It is suspected that he wants to buy the Capitol building for a coal shed for one of his steamship company clients.

$5000. FOR HIS LOVE

Judge De Bolt and his jury are today engaged in hearing the case of Keawe Waiwi, who is suing James Collier for $5000 for alienation of his wife's affections. Charlie Achi, who is the plaintiff's attorney, in his statement to the jury, claimed that the defendant had wooed and won the woman while her husband was sick in bed, and that she had gone with the tempter and left her husband.

Territory v. Sing Yuen also went over for a week. Also, Territory v. Lincoln Loy McCandless and James Armstrong, the county assessor's ordinary case. Attorney General Hemenway later in the day filed the Territory's brief in this case.

In the assumpsit matter of John Effinger vs. Marion C. Crook, a demurrer to the complaint has been filed by the defendant.

DOLE SUSTAINED IN DOLLAR CASE

Japanese Win In U.S. Circuit Court Of Appeals

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit, in San Francisco, has decided the famous Stanley Dollar case. It sustains the decision rendered by Judge Dole awarding damages to the plaintiff Japanese to a total amount of almost $5000.

The Dollar case was one of the most bitterly fought admiralty suits ever heard in this Territory. The plaintiffs were Japanese. The steamship Stanley Dollar came to Honolulu for the purpose of carrying Japanese emigrants to the mainland. Those in charge of the venture advertised that she would leave on a certain date, and that she would land her passengers on United States soil, but complications arose on account of the fact that she did not have the license necessary to allow her to do this, and the consequence was that she was tied up, and when she finally did sail she had to go to Victoria instead of to the United States.

The Japanese who had engaged passage in her according to the terms of the advertisements, libeled the vessel, which was kept here for a long time while a warm fight was waged in the courts. Judge Dole finally gave his decision in favor of the Japanese as stated above.

The news of the decision arrived here in a cablegram addressed to J. J. Dunne, who was counsel in the case, assisted by Geo. Davis and Chas. F. Chillingworth. It is not believed that an appeal will be taken by the Dollar Company, as the decision, according to the cablegram, was unanimous. In the meantime the plaintiffs have scattered all over the islands and some have even left the Territory altogether.

MAY CHARGE POWERS WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Ran Over Japanese Child Which Died This Morning

Tamara Tsugi, the Japanese child which was run over by a hack driven by John Powers on Auld lane last Sunday, died at the hospital this morning as a result of the injuries it had received. It was only two years and three months of age.

Powers appeared before Judge Andrade this morning on a charge of heedless driving which had been entered against him shortly after the accident took place, but this case was continued, as, owing to the death of the child, a charge of manslaughter will probably be preferred.

MANY JAPANESE WANT CERTIFICATES

Large Number Visited The Secretary This Morning

A stranger visiting the Capitol this morning might have thought that Honolulu had fallen into the hands of the Japanese and that the subjects of the Mikado had taken possession of the public offices. The building fairly swarmed with the sons and daughters of Nippon, of both sexes and all ages. The driveway was lined with the hacks which had brought them up. However, their intentions were pacific. The fathers and mothers were all after certificates of Hawaiian birth for their children, and they kept Secretary Mott-Smith busy all morning.

JIMMIE WILDER HAS VERY NARROW ESCAPE

Might Have Been Fined But Got Off Because Of His Youth

"I could feel myself sweating ten dollar fines at every pore," gasped Jimmie Wilder, the artist, this morning, as he fled from Judge De Bolt's court room. "I thought sure he was going to soak me."

Jimmie is on the jury list of the court, and in taking a little relaxation from his customary arduous labors by sitting in the jury box and passing on the weaknesses of his fellow mortals. But this morning, while dreaming that he had painted a picture that put Rubens and Rembrandt and Rafael and all the rest of the fossil artists into the list of the Forgotten, he neglected to wake up. As a consequence, when the roll of the jury was called, Jimmie Wilder was neither present nor accounted for.

About half an hour later he came sidling in at the side door, with a guilty look on his face, and sneaked over to a bench. All the rest of the jury men, except those selected to sit on the case being tried, had been excused.

The judge paid no attention to Wilder for some time. Suddenly he looked up.

"Mr. Wilder," he said, "Jimmie turned pale and stood up on quivering legs."

"You were not here on time this morning," thundered the Judge. The culprit turned from pale to pink and acknowledged the truth of the charge in a faltering voice.

"Well, Mr. Wilder," said His Honor, "I don't want you to feel slighted because I have not issued a bench warrant for you as I intended to do, and as I have done for others."

"It's my first offense, your Honor," gasped the tardy one.

SECOND DEPUTY'S SALARY THE LARGER

Curious Condition Is Revealed By Tax Office Row

In connection with the Tax Office investigation, which is still occupying the attention of the Governor and the Secretary, a very curious fact has come out. This is that the second deputy in the Tax Office, Charles Wilder, draws down a bigger salary than the first deputy, Arthur Neely. Wilder draws $200 a month, while Neely, who is technically at least, his superior, draws only $175. Neely's salary is fixed in the salary appropriation act. Wilder's is fixed by Treasurer Campbell. ### Campbell Kapaa Only One Appraisers

Governor Frear this morning denied absolutely that he ever offered the position of Treasurer of the Territory to any man other than the present incumbent, A. J. Campbell, or that he ever had any intention of offering it to anyone else.

The Bulletin's information was obtained from what should have been an absolutely authentic source. If the informant had been telling the truth, which it appears from the Governor's statement he was not.

In the matter of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., vs. J. Coepper, upon appeal from the District Magistrate of Honolulu, the Supreme Court this morning handed down a decision reversing the order of the lower court denying the motion to amend the complaint. The judgment is vacated and the cause remanded for further proceedings.
